The mission of the Committee of Good Will - Olga Havel Foundation

is to help people who, because of their poor state of health or social standing, find it difficult to participate in society or cannot care for themselves without other people's assistance. Through its activities, the Foundation aims to foster spiritual values and education, defend human rights and promote generally acknowledged humanitarian values.

Goals

The Foundation's primary objective is to support social and healthcare services which help people at risk of social exclusion claim their dignified place in society. In particular, the Foundation supports civic associations and charities that provide social services for abandoned and handicapped children, the homeless, women in need, seniors, and people recovering from illness and injuries, plus organisations helping to alleviate people's suffering during illness and providing support during the trying moments of one's final days. The Foundation also runs its own programmes in support of education for socially disadvantaged or handicapped children. Every year, the Foundation presents the Olga Havel Award to a person who, despite his or her disability, is engaged in helping others. The Foundation collaborates with other NGOs in working to enhance the quality of social and healthcare services and safeguarding human rights.

The principles that guide the Committee of Good Will – Olga Havel Foundation have remained unchanged since its founding

The distribution of Foundation grants

grants must be distributed in an effective manner with a view to their long-term impact. It must bear in mind the “weak points” in social, healthcare, and educational policy, and should provide financial support in places nobody else is funding or which are suffering from a lack of sufficient funds.

In publicising our activities – for instance, by providing information on our aims, principles and realised objectives – we always acknowledge the people and organisations that have contributed to realising these goals, as well as those who work for the Foundation behind the scenes or as volunteers.

May all our activities, projects, campaigns, research, and collaborative efforts show the Foundation as an organisation that acknowledges the human dignity of all people, regardless of whether they are rich or poor, live freely and independently or are dependent on the help of others.

May the Foundation’s grants help to find new and effective solutions to difficult life situations, may they first and foremost go to programmes focussed on prevention and intervention, thus contributing to improving the future prospects of children, adults, and families. The Foundation also promotes meetings and dialogue with non-governmental non-profit organisations with similar objectives.

Our Foundation endeavours to support civil society, and to promote social changes that will help to integrate people at risk of poverty and social exclusion. We do so with deep gratitude towards Mrs Olga Havel, who intuitively promoted this philosophy in the early days of the Committee of Good Will.

The history of the Committee of Good Will – Olga Havel Foundation

The Committee of Good Will was founded on 12 April 1990 by Olga Havlová (1933–1996), the first wife of the president of the Czech Republic, in the spirit of the Charter 77 Committee for the Defence of the Unjustly Prosecuted. The Committee undertook to appeal to society’s moral conscience and to call attention to shortcomings in the state’s social policy and in the work of social, healthcare, educational and other institutions. It also decided to help non-governmental non-profit organisations in their efforts at integrating handicapped, ailing, elderly and abandoned individuals – people who are discriminated against and at risk of social isolation. Since its beginnings, the Committee of Good Will has, to the best of its abilities, also offered assistance to specific individuals if they had no other organisation or facility to turn to.

The Olga Havel Foundation was registered on 23 September 1992. Since that time, the organisation has used the compound name Committee of Good Will – Olga Havel Foundation. As its founder, Mrs Olga took special care to ensure that applications for social and healthcare support were properly evaluated, that grants were used for their intended purposes, that assistance was provided promptly, and that the Foundation nurtured its contacts with both donors and beneficiaries. These are the principles that the Foundation has followed to this day.

In accordance with Act No. 227/1997 on foundations and endowment funds, on 14 December 1998, the Foundation was registered in the Foundation Register administered by the Municipal Court in Prague, section N, file 69.

Dear friends and supporters and all of you who would like to learn more about the work of the Committee of Good Will – Olga Havel Foundation in 2009!

I hope that, in this time of uncertainty regarding the state of society, we can brighten your day with sorely needed good news and hope.

The programmes presented on these pages offer those of us for whom life is a difficult burden and task a chance for personal development. These programmes are made possible through the understanding and conscious sense of solidarity of our donors, to whom we are grateful for the trust they have placed in our activities – whose goal is the provision of financial support to non-governmental organisations and needy individuals. But this is just one aspect of our work. We understand the mission of the Committee of Good Will as stretching across the full breadth of social and political responsibility, as expressing a sense of mutuality and focussing on the needs of our disadvantaged fellow citizens.

You probably know such people personally, but we would like to use this opportunity to gratefully acknowledge the great number of self-sacrificing people involved in realising often difficult-to-sustain programmes.

Our good news to you is this: do not fear, things are not as bad as they might seem! There are plenty of good people and plenty of good will, filling us with the joy and strength to come together in order to overcome any obstacles and to meet the needs of our disadvantaged fellow citizens and of society at large.

We also helped purchase equipment for the Sanatorium Edel in Zlaté Hory and Hospital Žatec, finance spirometer for Thomayer University Hospital and educational courses for parents in Třebíč, Svitavy and Ústí nad Orlicí.

→ Total expenditures in 2009 for activities offering a better life to children with asthma and allergies amounted to CZK 1,337,961.

Davos 2009 – Magic Hill

Therapeutic stays at the International Children’s Centre at High Mountain Hospital Davos have entered their fifth year. The three-week diagnostic and treatment holiday was attended by eight children from Most and nearby towns and villages. The group was accompanied by Kristýna Chudlařská. Following the stay, the children’s attending physician, Dr. Jiří Kuneš of the allergy ward for children and youth in Most, received medical reports containing recommendations of measures to take for each specific case.

→ Project coordinator: Gabriela Türkeová

Dear Nurse is a small programme for promoting nurses’ education through seminars and literature related to caring for cancer patients. The programme was established through the support of the Kubeček family in 2001.

→ Expenditures for this programme in 2009 amounted to CZK 115,869.

Social, healthcare, and humanitarian programmes

The aim of our support in this area is to promote processes that provide socially excluded individuals or individuals at risk of social exclusion with the opportunity to fully engage in the economic, social, and cultural life of society and to live in a manner considered by society to be “normal”.

Pathways to Integration

The broad-based “Pathways to Integration” programme provides aid and support to socially disadvantaged and handicapped individuals. The Foundation has long organised this programme according to the principle that the conditions for the provision of grants are adjusted to the circumstances dictated by current sources of financing. The Foundation provides social services providers with funding for innovative projects, and helps handicapped individuals purchase compensational and physical therapy aids for facilitating their integration into society. The programme reimburses individuals and organisations exclusively for basic aids, physical therapy equipment and other equipment used directly by the client; it does not cover operating costs or salaries.

Committee of Good Will Senovážné náměstí 2 Prague 1

... We would like to thank you for providing us with a grant of CZK 10,000 for the purchase of a motorized wheelchair for our daughter Blanka. It is interesting that relationships that could be called normal and human are unfortunately not too common today. For this reason, we thank you very much that your approach to the physically disabled involves an understanding for their financial limitations. We are glad that you not only understand our situation, but also that – by lending a helping hand – you are trying to ease our difficulties.

24 Feb. 2009

The Š. family

Towards the end of 2009, we concluded our nationwide “There can never be enough kindness” collection (account no. 625625625/0300). This collection had been one of the sources of financing for Pathways to Integration.

Via collection we helped Tomáš Lang from Prague to finance bionic artificial hands. Tomáš became the first man in the Czech Republic with sophisticated artificial hands.

The collection was also used to finance the “Silence Won’t Cure Silence” sub-programme, which the Foundation has been operating since 1999. The project’s guarantor is Dr. Olga Dlouhá from the Department of Phoniatrics at the Charles University Faculty of Medicine in Prague. Its main objective is for hearing-impaired children to start using high-quality digital hearing aids at an early age, so that they can learn to hear and talk and attend school with their peers. In 2009, the programme helped purchase digital hearing aids and other tools for 71 hearing-impaired children.

→ Coordinator: Gabriela Türkeová.

As part of the Pathways to Integration project, we provided 256 grants to individuals – children and adults – with physical disabilities. These included:

- 113 wheelchairs
- 71 hearing aids/speech processors for cochlear implants
- 19 medical aids
- 19 strollers for handicapped children
- 15 contributions for tuition
- 7 software and other computer accessories
- 2 musical instruments
- 10 various aids

→ The total volume of grants issued as part of Pathways to Integration amounted to CZK 2,161,731. Of this, CZK 759,836 came from the “There can never be enough kindness” collection focussed on the integration of handicapped children and adults.

Dear Sir/Madam,

When I sent you my letter regarding your services, I honestly did not expect that my needs would be met. I was thus pleasantly surprised by the visit from Mr Jakeš and Jonathan (a German volunteer with the “Živá paměť” charity, supported by the Committee of Good Will). We discussed the possibility of regular visits, including Jonathan helping me at home. Several weeks later, I am glad to say that his help has been of a great benefit to me. I am enormously satisfied with Jonathan. He is polite, knows how to work with older people, and is capable of helping and spreading cheer with a kind word. I hope to meet with him in the future as well, and I wish you all the best in your praiseworthy activities in the future.

Senior

When it comes to providing care and support to the older generation, the Foundation is interested in two types of projects: Those that help people who wish to experience their old age in an active manner, and those that provide support for abandoned seniors or for individuals suffering from long-term illnesses. In 2009, the Foundation concluded the nationwide “Senior” collection, but it continues to use other resources to provide funding to organisations that ensure that the oldest generation can live a dignified life. In addition to the collection, the Foundation received funding for the Senior programme from inheritances and from proceeds from the Benefit Concert of Good Will. In 2009, the Foundation announced two tenders for grant applications (March, October).

→ As part of the Senior programme in 2009, we distributed a total of CZK 1,886,583 for a diverse range of projects organised by non-governmental non-profit organisations.

→ Project coordinators:

Ordinary Life

This programme funds social projects by NGOs aimed at helping people at risk of social exclusion find their way back to a normal life. Target groups are eighteen-year-olds getting ready to leave children's homes and institutions, homeless and unemployed individuals, street children and women and children who have been the victims of violence. The programme also includes projects by organisations active in isolated Roma communities, streetwork aimed at street children and youth, community projects and social work. The Foundation funds these projects using interest from the Foundation Investment Fund.

Non-targeted donations were used to support additional NGO projects within the Ordinary Life programme that did not receive funding from NIF funds.

→ The volume of these grants amounted to CZK 520,129.

→ Total expenditures for the Ordinary Life programme in 2009 amounted to CZK 2,328,129.

New Family

The Foundation is involved in the transformation of how we care for at-risk children in the Czech Republic not only through the "New Family" programme – which promotes quality foster care – but also as part of the "Ordinary Life" programme, which has recently been expanded to include the family reconstitution.

Act no. 108/2006 on social services includes the reconstitution of families among active social services. The aim of such services is both prevention – i.e., working with failing families at risk of losing their children to institutional care (often for reasons of poverty, inadequate housing or lack of home furnishings) – as well as returning children from institutional care back to their biological families. Unlike in many other countries, in the Czech Republic family reconstitution has become a social service. It involves family guidance, assistance and other forms of social work aimed at preserving the family. Since 2009, the Foundation has been partially involved in the project "Promoting the integrity of families

Report on the utilisation of interest from the Foundation Investment Fund (NIF)

In January 2009, the Foundation announced two calls for proposals for projects from organisations providing social prevention services for children, youth and adults at risk of social exclusion.

On 15 April 2009, the Board of Directors of the Committee of Good Will – Olga Havel Foundation decided on the distribution of grants from 2008 NIF interest
The 2008 interest from the Foundation Investment Fund (NIF) amounted to CZK 2,087,289. The Foundation's Board of Directors decided that CZK 1,800,000 would be divided in the form of grants for projects, with the remaining amount of CZK 287,289 (ca. 13%) to be used for the Foundation's operating costs. The board decided to distribute these funds to organisations that provide social services to at-risk children, young adults who are leaving children's homes, mothers with children in need, homeless individuals, people with drug addictions, and families living in socially-excluded communities.

Education

Education Fund

One central Foundation programme is the Education Fund, whose general partner is the ČSOB bank. The programme provides scholarships for handicapped children and children from children's homes or from socially disadvantaged families. In order to be awarded and continue to receive a scholarship, students must maintain good grades and take an active approach to their studies. Students receive the scholarship until graduation as long as their average grade does not drop below 2. If their grades worsen, we send them a warning, after which the scholarship is reduced or cancelled.

Scholarship applications are discussed by the Education Fund's advisory board and approved by the Foundation's Board of Directors. The advisory board includes representatives from our partner, ČSOB, which also contributes financially in the Foundation's research and presentational activities. One important event this year was the presentation of a financial reward and certificates on the successful completion of university studies to four scholarship recipients at the Foundation's offices. In 2009, the Education Fund introduced a new feature: every handicapped recipient of an Education Fund scholarship was also assigned a ČSOB employee as a patron. This patronage offers ČSOB a further opportunity for involving its employees into philanthropic activities while at the same time strengthening its partnership with the Olga Havel Foundation. In 2009 we provided scholarships to a total of 67 secondary school and university students – roughly 1/3 were handicapped children, 1/3 came from children's homes, 1/3 were from socially disadvantaged families, and there was a balanced number of boys and girls. The Foundation also provided single grants to dozens of students for learning aids, school fees, compensation aids and other needs. Also helping to purchase study aids for secondary school and university students was the Václav and Livia Klaus Endowment Fund, which contributed the proceeds from a nationwide collection in support of education. The collection was held at Prague Castle around Christmas 2008 and Easter 2009.

→ Advisory Board: Ljuba Václavová (chair), František Kopecký, Milan Pospíšil, Vladimíra Rattayová, Miloš Rejchrt, Pavlína Folvská, Milena Černá, secretary: Eva Kvasničková.

→ Over the course of 2009, the Foundation disbursed a total of CZK 1,631,009 for the education of socially disadvantaged and handicapped students. Of this amount, the Václav and Livia Klaus Endowment Fund contributed CZK 551,000 and ČSOB contributed CZK 940,000. Another sponsor of the programme was ČSOB Asset management.

The fourth annual Committee of Good Will summer language school was held at the beginning of August Eighteen girls and twelve boys from children's homes spent two weeks at the Orlíček compound in Nekoř engaged in a playful language school. In the mornings, the children practiced their English in the classroom; in the afternoons, they took their language skills on field trips into the forest or to the playground. In order for Debbie and Scott – native speakers from the Akcent language school – to be able to communicate with the girls and boys aged 10 to 14, instruction was almost exclusively in English. Thanks to the interactive approach, the children remembered their grammar lessons and had little difficulty in increasing their level of language skills. The summer school let them know that they didn't have to be afraid of English and that they really could converse in a foreign language!

Dear Friends,

We would like to thank you very much for organising, and for inviting our children to attend, the Summer Language School at the Orlíček recreational compound in the Orlice Mountains from 2 to 15 August. We are convinced that this summer camp was a pleasant addition to the children's summertime, that they truly enjoyed themselves, and that they will remember this time fondly. The children will definitely be able to apply the new language skills - acquired while communicating with teachers from England - during the school year.

We are glad that, even during this financial crisis, there are people who have not forgotten about those who have not had many chances in life to experience true happiness, and who are willing to help them forget, for at least a moment, their daily troubles. All children need a sense of security and the sense of belonging - and this is all the more visible among children growing up in institutional care. Your services reassure them that someone is thinking of them and that someone cares for them, even if it isn't their own family.

Sincerely,
Antonín Nachtnebl
Director, Znojmo children's home

Salzburg Cornell Medical Seminar

In 2009, the Open Medical Institute organised 19 international seminars in Salzburg. The Foundation again helped to coordinate applications from Czech doctors, with a total of 116 doctors applying to the seminars. Of these, 45 successfully passed through the admissions process – a significant increase over 2008, when 20 Czech doctors attended. The largest number of applicants was for the seminar on imaging techniques in cardiology (16), followed by otolaryngology (12) and surgery (12). In addition, five doctors participated in an internship in Vienna.

The Foundation also organised two local seminars in Prague, which were attended by doctors and by representatives from non-profit organisations. The first seminar took place on 31 March and was focused on the psychiatric aspects of palliative care. The seminar was presented by Dr. Ondřej Sláma of Brno's Masaryk University. On 3 December, Dr. Jindřich Fiala of Prague's Thomayer University Hospital gave a lecture on "Dementia and related neurological disorders." Seminar evaluations show that the Salzburg seminars are positively received, and the Foundation can be proud to be organizing them. The seminars and internships promote the sharing of the latest knowledge and expert experience, thus helping to improve the quality of medical care in the Czech Republic. The programme is led by the Open Medical Institute (OMI) and is funded by the American Austrian Foundation (AAF).

- In 2009, the Foundation spent CZK 76,087 on this programme.

Medical Journals

In 2009, the Foundation provided the National Medical Library with the following medical journals published in the United States: Diabetes, Harvard Health Letter, and Psychiatric Rehabilitation Journal. These journals, which the Foundation has been receiving from their publishers since 1990, help to keep our doctors' level of education up to date. A big thank you to all the publishers!

Promoting and protecting human rights

The promotion and protection of human rights have been an element of all programmes of the Committee of Good Will – Olga Havel Foundation since the beginning. The form taken by these programmes changes according to the current situation in the Czech Republic and the world. When necessary, the Foundation's financial reserves can be used to support families with refugee status, refugee children without family support, or projects aimed at integrating persons living in disadvantaged Roma communities. The provision of support to such projects or individuals takes place via the Ordinary Life, New Family, and Education Fund projects.

The Olga Havel Award

This prestigious award is announced three months prior to the official presentation. Anyone can make a nomination as long as he or she knows the nominee well. The objective of the Olga Havel Award is to acknowledge the achievements of individuals who, despite their disability, have been truly committed to helping others. The award recipient is selected by a jury from a list of nominees. During the awards ceremony, the Committee of Good Will – Olga Havel Foundation also acknowledges important donors, long-time volunteers, and project organizers in the fields of healthcare, social services, education, and human rights.

→ Olga Havel Award Jury: Dana Němcová (chair), Iveta Pešková, Pavel Wiener, Blanka Dvořáková, Eva Hůlková, Jan Lorman. Secretary: Pavla Kovářová

→ In 2009, project expenditures amounted to CZK 134,772.

The 2009 Olga Havel Award was presented on 12 May 2009 at the National Museum's Czech Museum of Music in Karmelitská Street in Prague's Lesser Town to Mrs Jana Hejzlarová, a senior citizen who founded a day centre for the elderly and handicapped at the St. Karel Boromejský Home in Řepy, and who has been active in the home's ergotherapy department for many years.

The Olga Havel Award – Olbram Zoubek's bronze statue Encouragement – was presented by Dana Němcová in the presence of First Lady Livia Klausová, former President Václav Havel, vice-president of the board Franziska Sternbergová, board members Josef Beneš and Ivan Douda, and other notable guests. Performing at the awards ceremony were Education Fund scholars Michaela Linková and Barbora Kozáková and the Bambini di Praga choir with choirmasters Blanka Kulínská and Lukáš Jindřich, accompanied on piano by Ludmila Čermáková.

The event was hosted by Pavel Zuna

We would also like to thank our volunteer hostesses who presented guests of the awards ceremony with gingerbread hearts created at the Sun for All Foundation's Service Centre in Unhošť, Annual Report supported by ČSOB and magazine 100+1.

Thank you for this exceptional award, for your expression of love, for your gifts. It is all so very dear and remarkable for me – a kind of milestone and further encouragement to continue serving the needy.

I feel as if my strength has been renewed, and the award has also brought joy to many of my colleagues. It confirms that one's "life arc" need not go down, but that it can aim upwards towards heaven, which for me has always been a source of new hope and love.

For this reason, we owe a great thanks to the Committee of Good Will, which is wonderfully capable of lighting up one's heart and knows how to light the spark for future work.
